100% confidence your contract has every requirement covered

Are you sure your project schedule covers every contractual requirement? Can you prove it?

Managing projects is a constant juggling act. With 1,001 things on your to do list, the last thing you need is to be caught out by a contractual requirement that was somehow overlooked and left out of the schedule.

Checking that the schedule and the contract align can be tedious, but as projects and contracts become ever more complex, project managers are increasingly required to prove that they have covered all relevant contractual requirements.

The good news is that Brooke has a proven, cost-effective and quick solution to this problem.

By employing an industry-first digital toolset and forward-thinking methodology, we help provide independent assurance that your contract and project are aligned.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

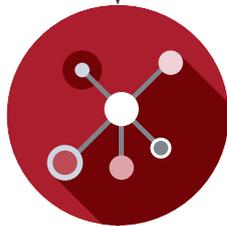

Our 5-step process for complete contract compliance confidence

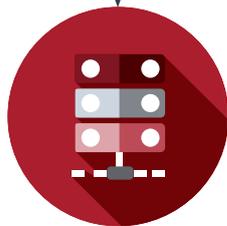

Working from your source documentation, we partner with you to identify your contract structure and high-level requirements using an outcome-focussed approach.

We then convert your contract and project documentation into our digital format, so that all information can be analysed electronically.

Next, by employing a range of proprietary algorithms, which are continuously improved through machine learning, we're able to do an extremely thorough automated analysis to rapidly identify any gaps.

This analysis is provided to you through a customised portal that maps requirements to schedule line items and highlights potential gaps, which we validate with your team.

We then work with you to determine the appropriate actions for each gap, which can then be tracked through your online portal. As gaps are closed out your dashboard updates, giving you a real-time view of your alignment status, as well as an audit trail.

Absolute audit assurance

Think of your online portal as a record book. As you take different actions to close out each gap, your digital dashboard is updated as well. This gives you you a real-time view of your contract-project alignment and serves as an independent resource to show you have the contract covered.
