Brooke

Enterprise Integration Consultant Roles

General Overview

Brooke supports clients to tackle their most complex digital transformation needs. Many of our customers have complex system integration challenges amidst their business transformation needs, especially as they focus on becoming more customer-centric. For some this is a matter of evolution, for others it's a matter of survival.

We're looking for more than just good system integrators and developers to solve these challenges. We're looking for great people who can genuinely influence, direct and deliver the very best possible ROI for our customers. We aim to be our clients' trusted partner for their transformation journeys and all team members have an important role to play.

Consultant Role: Minimum 5 years' experience in system integration required

In the first 3 months

- Relationships: Form important working relationships with the key people within Brooke, and with our platform partners MuleSoft and Salesforce, that will help you achieve success in your role. These are all wonderful, intelligent people who share a strong focus on differentiating and winning in the market. You will work alongside our Enterprise Architecture and Integration practice lead and support Brooke's strong working relationships with our clients by helping them think through their system integration issues.
- Approach: Understand the "Brooke Way" and deliver quality outcomes for our clients. We place a lot of emphasis on the Brooke Way as our differentiator in winning and delivering work.
- Sales Support: Assist the Sales team to complete technical responses, provide quality assurance for our technical customer support and design integration approaches for Tenders and Proposals. It's likely you'll need to hit the ground running in this key part of your role.
- Certifications and Training: To be successful in the role, you will need to be (or be supported on the path to become) a certified expert in the MuleSoft AnyPoint Integration platform. You will maintain certification while keeping abreast of the latest enterprise technologies and applications that influence the integration landscape. If you have certifications in other integration platforms, or in Salesforce, these credentials will also be highly valued.

Ongoing Role

- Overseeing and delivering integration development work for clients as a consultant and senior developer, you will support the creation of the shared success stories for which Brooke is renowned.
- As one of the standard-setters for how Brooke does MuleSoft development, you'll have a strong role in mentoring junior developers and also contribute to the Brooke Academy's MuleSoft training practice.
- As a part of the channel partner team with MuleSoft, you'll constantly evaluate the toolkits and training we need to be successful with our customers. Working closely with the MuleSoft team will be integral.
- You will be involved in ongoing Sales and Marketing support for events, tenders and proposals to help in enhancing Brooke's reputation as a leader in Business and IT transformations.
